Seasoned travelers return home

Ten, somewhat worn-out, North Mesquite students arrived home March 28 after traveling across the Atlantic and touring France, Switzerland, Germany, and Holland.

"We arrived in Amsterdam, Holland, and then stayed in Paris, Switzerland, and Germany for two days each," explained Becky Blankenship, a senior who went on the trip. In Paris they saw the Arch of Triumph, the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre and the "Mona Lisa." One of the most interesting things for Becky was riding the subways or "metros" in Paris. "Most of us had never ridden in them before," she explained. While in Paris, the group encountered a totally unexpected situation. At the hotel where they were staying, the management took their luggage, locked it up, and refused to give it to them until a bill made by another group several years earlier had been paid. During the six hours it took to get the matter straightened out, the group milled around aimlessly in the hotel lobby.

From Paris, the group traveled to Switzerland, where they stayed at a mountain top hotel overlooking the Alps. Donna Adams, another senior who went on the trip said, "I enjoyed Switzerland most of all. It was everything you'd dream Switzerland to be like. The people were dressed in native costumes and we watched goatherders. It was really beautiful."

In Germany the group traveled through the Black Forest and "ate genuine weinerschityel," Donna said. The tour guide on the bus told the group the history and some of the legends about the different sights.

Amsterdam was the next destination, and then home.

Donna commented, "I think everyone had a really nice time. We all depended on each other - you had to depend on each other or get left behind. Someone was always playing practical jokes, and it was like one big family."

The tour was sponsored by Mrs. Twilla Malone and students who went are Becky Blankenship, Marilyn Nolley, Pat Sampeck, Cindy Nicholson, Debra Adams, Donna Adams, Russell Mowell, Jan Faulkner, Dwanna Gunter, and Stan Moffatt. Mrs. Malone's father, Mr. John Cummins, also accompanied the group.

FCA works, plays

Working for summer camp funds, the FCA cooked and washed for their money. April 12 the boys planned a pancake breakfast. Cooking was done by Mr. James McCoy, assistant principal, and some coaches.

The girls weren't to be outdone that afternoon. The north parking lot was the location of the $1-per-vehicle car wash.

"Proceeds from both of these activities went toward the boys and girls FCA summer camps," said Mrs. Judi Baggett, FCA sponsor.

Other activities by FCA were held Saturday evening when the girls attended a reception at J. J. Pearce High School where they visited with Olympic track and field women athletic stars.

The following day the girls attended the North Texas Girls FCA Sports Rally at SMU Stadium. North Mesquite girls were honored with hosting the visiting athletes for the afternoon. Mary Powell

RICHLAND COLLEGE Astronomy, Horticulture

By DAVID NOLEN

Seniors interested in astronomy and horticulture should investigate Richland College. It has the district's only planetarium, a 100-seat facility with a 40-foot dome.

Another "Richland only" feature is the horticulture unit located near the main entrance to the campus.

Richland College, which opened in the fall of 1972, is spread on a beautiful site, which includes a meandering, spring-fed creek interrupted by dams to form two picturesque lakes. Campus facilities extend along both sides of the lake, linked by open and closed pedestrian bridges. Extensive landscaping augments the many natural trees which exist on the site.

Located on a 259-acre site at 12800 Abrams Road, Richland has convenient access routes from Richardson, Garland and other areas of north and northeast Dallas County.

Applications will be accepted anytime prior to registration.

Tuition is charged on a sliding scale basis according to the number of credit hours in which a student is enrolled and his place of legal residence.

Residents of Dallas County are charged $6 per credit hour for up to 10 credit hours; minimum $25.

For residents of other Texas Counties the cost is $20 per credit hour for up to 10 credit hours; minimum $25.

For non-Texas residents it is $40 per credit hour. For out-of-country residents it would be $40 per credit hour; minimum $200.

So remember seniors, if it's astronomy or horticulture you want, keep Richland in mind.

There's One in Every Crowd

By BRIAN DHORITY

Last July Eric Clapton came out of his self-imposed retirement with a London party attended by such notables as John Baldry, Pete Townsend, and Elton John. He announced his plans for a new group with keyboard man Carl Radle and this union resulted in his gold record, "I Shot the Sheriff." On his new album, There's One in Every Crowd, Eric surpasses all of his former works.

We've Been Told (Jesus Coming Soon)" kicks off the album with the muted guitar solo switching to a laid back reggae. "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" is the old spiritual redone. It's nice, but it's not anything to make you sit up and listen.

"The Sky is Crying" and "Singing the Blues" show off Clapton's exceptional blues singing. Lyrics such as "The Sun is shining although its raining in my heart" make Clapton sound almost like a white B. B. King.

In "Opposites" Clapton's rolling guitar solo highlights a short, but snappy cut. "Better Make It Through Today" is a rather slow tune where keyboardist Carl Radle really shines on both piano and organ. Next is "Little Rachel" where Clapton crones, "While my guitar plays its tune we're gonna dance under the moon."

"Don't Blame Me" has the lyrics "I didn't shoot no deputy." Where have I heard that before? Clapton saves the best for last with "Pretty Blue Eyes." He switches back and forth from a rhythmic guitar and piano solo to a very choral sound.

'I'm a Sensation!'

By PAUL KEYES

Out of the British Isles, comes the rock-opera, Tommy. Created by the Who's Peter Townshend, already proclaimed "god" by English youth, the film tells the life story of Tommy, the deaf, dumb, and blind pinball wizard and the bizarre attempts to cure him.

Tommy stars an all-pro cast from the music and screen world. Individually they are stars such as Ann-Margaret, alluring and strong, who plays Tommy's mother. This performance is the best acting Ann-Margaret has ever done.

Also, Roger Daltrey, the Who's vocalist, plays the part of Tommy, and he plays the part so well, that one is convinced that Daltrey is Tommy.

Eric Clapton has the part of the preacher. With smooth vocals and bubbling guitar riffs, Clapton proves that he sings and plays as well as he ever did.

Tina Turner is the vibrant Acid Queen, as she grinds her way through the scene with a violent electricity all her own.

From high atop four-foot platform shoes, Elton John, "Old glitter glasses" adds a bit of humor to the film as the Pinball Wizard. Actually Elton John's rendition of the Pinball Wizard song is excellent.

The Who's drummer, Keith Moon, plays the perverted Uncle Ernie. However, Uncle Ernie comes out more humorous than evil.

Providing most of the backup music, The Who is one of the most innovative groups in the music field. They were first to destroy their instruments on stage (they do this in the Pinball Wizard scene), and the first to create a rock opera.

Tommy is the movie experience of the year. And with the sound-track piped in through the special five channel sound system turned up to concert level, Tommy is the musical experience of the year.

Once the movie ends, you'll leave the Inwood Theatre, agreeing with Tommy, that it's a sensation.

Pacesetters perform in style

The annual Pacesetter Stage show, April 5 was well-received by an audience of students and teachers. The show consisted of a variety of routines and skits by both senior and junior members, of which Miss Karla Blount, sponsor, selected. Miss Blount said, "It was the best show ever."

Slides of student life got the show off the ground. "For the Love of Money" was the first routine. It was dedicated to all working students. Following that was "At the Hop" a tribute to the good ole' days of the 50's. Batons were featured.

"Rocket Man" was a graceful routine signifying the "new frontier" of the seniors of 1975. Various sports were represented by "You Ain't Seen Nothing Yet."

"Kung Fu Fighting" was next. It spotlighted one of the many activities of the students of North Mesquite.

The lights dimmed and "North Mesquite Follies" was ready to roll. This was a film depicting some of the strange goings-on around the school.

Strobe lighting was used by the Pacesetters officers in their routine "I Got the Music in Me." Officers for 1974-75 are: Joan O'Neil, Captain; Nina Peterson, Co-Captain; Cindy Hudson, Janice Izzarelli, Pam Spates, Lieutenants; and Cheryl Wisel, Sergeant.

The State Show came to a close with the presentation of the senior Pacesetters by the juniors and the exchanging of flowers and gifts. Miss Blount said, "The presentation was different this year because I wanted to do something special for the seniors because they were terrific."

Next year's officers were then announced. They are Dee Onn Cunningham, Mitzi Laning, Susan Schnieder, Cindy Shelton, and Kim Sowell.

This year has been an active year for the Pacesetters and Miss Blount. Besides performing at football and basketball games, they also did their routines at pep rallies, a Christmas party for underprivileged Mesquite children, and the stage show.

Slave Day to come

Attention everyone, the South has gone but the Slaves are going to rise again. The annual Slave Day sponsored by the Student Council is soon to come.

May 5 and 6 will open the auction presided by that fast-talking, mumbo-jumbo artist Danny Clark. Students outbidding the rest will then get the opportunities of dressing, ordering, and generally harassing their "slave," for one day - May 9.

In the past Student Council has purchased the marque, the portable public address systems used in pep rallies and faculty meetings, entry mats, and spirit banners in the cafeteria with the money, Mrs. Ada Allen, sponsor said. Rules for slave day are: freshmen must be a slave in order to purchase one in future years. Also, only sophomores, juniors, and seniors may purchase slaves. They are "on duty" between classes and lunchrooms only, and extremes in costumes will not be allowed.

Also slave owners may select dress of slave which if questionable should be checked by the office.

Slaves refusing to serve must pay Student Council twice the amount of money that was paid for them.

Special features

By DAWN WHITNEY

North Mesquite recently celebrated Western Day, in which students dressed up in cowboy-type clothes. In the interest of fairness, why not dedicate a day to another part of our culture, the freak? The following is an account of what North Mesquite's first annual Freak Day might be like.

First Annual Freak Day activities began last Wednesday with acid rock replacing the usual morning announcements.

Classes were filled with the sounds of Black Sabbath, Deep Purple, and Jethro Tull, and students dressed in outfits of faded blue jeans, T-shirts, and anything else they wanted. The dress code was abolished for the day and boys were allowed to grow their hair long in honor of the special occasion.

Cindy Hudson, Diann Dyer, Nina Peterson on bench their woes and agony.

Why not Freak Day?

Nearly everyone got into the spirit of the day, including the lunchroom ladies who served special dishes such as "Humble Pie" and "Bread Zeppelin."

An assembly was held during the sixth period in which Dr. Ralph Poteet, superintendent of schools, gave a speech to all students and displayed his newly-acquired black leather jacket with "Mesquite Independent School District" printed in gold studs on the back. For entertainment, Principal John Campbell played "Smoke on the Water" on a comb and tissue paper, accompanied by Dr. Poteet on the spoons.

The last event of the day was a fashion show in order to determine the "Best Dressed Freak." The original winner was disqualified from the contest as judges found out he was an authentic freak who had wandered into school. The student body then unanimously chose Vice-Principal James McCoy as the "Best Dressed Freak." Mr. McCoy wore an outfit of bleached blue jeans with assorted patches and a button-seamed T-shirt. His knee-high boots matched the headband he wore around his waist-length hair. Mr. McCoy proudly thanked the student body for honor and on receiving his prize, two tickets to the Frank Zappa and The Mothers concert, commented, "Oh wonderful, I just love family acts!"

Prom attendance increases

By SUSAN JORDAN

With the prom date rules revised slightly this year, the Pony Express has polled junior and seniors to find out whether this change has affected students' decision to attend the prom May 3. Results showed 41 percent polled were planning to attend the prom.

The evening at the Hilton Inn will begin with a buffet-style dinner followed with a dance, with music by "Lo Della." Seniors may invite outside guests, without an interview by administration being required. Seniors will be responsible for behavior of outside guests.

Juniors or seniors may invite sophomores, juniors or seniors from within the Mesquite Independent School District. Attire will be formal or semi-formal. Boys should wear coats and ties.

Polling student reasons for not going to the Prom have produced many varied answers. One senior seems to think that no one goes to the prom and this is her reason for not going. A junior says that he does not like social engagements. Some others go on to say that they think it's lousy, that they have better things on which to spend their time and money. Many wish the date would be changed because of the Chicago concert.

Still, the rules must have affected students attendance of the prom since 41 percent plan to attend, whereas approximately 10 percent attended last year.

1. Are you going to the prom?

2. Is your date from the Mesquite School District?

Western Day uneventful

Western Day started and ended without so much as a "Ki-Yi Yippie Ki Yah!!" April 4. Only a few students and teachers dressed up for the occasion.

Celebration of this day is city-wide to begin Rodeo season which starts in April and lasts through the summer. In the Mesquite elementary schools, rodeo tickets are awarded to the two best dressed students.

This year no judging of the best dressed students was held at North Mesquite. So Western Day just faded away with many a cowpoke riding off into the sunset.

'Goodbye Pie'

By BOB HADDOX

Humble Pie rocked into Dallas' Memorial Auditorium on March 19 for their "Goodbye Pie" show. "The Pie" followed a moving act by Rovin Trower. It was a hard act to follow, but "The Pie" did a good job.

The show started with "Four Day Creep," an old rocker. This was followed by another mover from "The Pie's" early days, "Stone Cold Fever." The show had two flaws: it was neither long enough nor loud enough. Humble Pie played only an hour and a half. Basically, they followed their early lead in their music: older and hard-rock music steering clear of their music leaning toward soul.

They only slowed the music down once for "I Wonder". The Pie did not play songs from their latest album, and added only the Stones' "Honky Tonk Woman" from an earlier album, Eat It.

Steve Marriott, guitarist and vocals, led the festivities. He seemed to be having the time of his life, running, jumping, and doing children's shuffles. He slapped the other guitarist, Clem Clempson, and kicked his bassist, Greg Ridley, but all as friends do. The show was followed by two encores, the first a medley consisting basically of "I Don't Need No Doctor," perhaps their best liked lead song. The second encore was "Honky Tonk Woman," no where near as impressive as the Stone's original version.

As the name of the tour indicates, Humble Pie is breaking up after six and a half years and eight albums. In late 1968, Humble Pie formed around guitarist, Peter Frampton and drummer, Jerry Shirley. Steve Marriott, formerly of the Small Faces joined the group, bringing in Greg Ridley.

In 1969, "The Pie" made two albums, Town and Country and As Safe as Yesterday Is, on a now-defunct label, Immediate Records. These albums were dominated by Frampton's acoustical tastes.

After Immediate collapsed, "The Pie" joined with A&M Records, and released an album called simply Humble Pie. Marriott's hard rock influence surfaced a little more.

By the time the group made its next album, Rock On, Dee Anthony was their new manager, and he began turning the band to straight hard rock. They next released a live album, which showed this new style better than any album ever done by "The Pie."

After the live album, in October 1971, Peter Frampton left the group to play the acoustical music he liked best. Dave "Clem" Clempson replaced him that same month. On the inside cover of the Lost and Found album, Steve Marriott is quoted as saying, "Clem was exactly right. It didn't take him 10 minutes to feel his way into it . . ."

Mrs. Lock takes calm approach

Mrs. Lock

Assuming many responsibilities such as Senior sponsor, Business Department Chairman, Business Machines and Typing II teacher, Mrs. Robbie Lock maintains a calm, well-organized approach to life and teaching.

"Everyday is different and full of surprises. There's never an opportunity to become bored in Room C-9 with my line up of students," said Mrs. Lock.

Mrs. Lock, who helps raise money for a senior class gift, explained, "It's an opportunity to meet outstanding talent groups and bring them here to perform for North Mesquite students. Most important is getting to know my students, their likes, dislikes, sharing their good and bad days and learning their plans for the future."

She loves all high school sports along with water skiing-fishing and all forms of sewing and needle craft.

Asked about graduation, Mrs. Lock said, "Graduation night is the saddest part of the year. When I line them up and march them into the auditorium to receive their diplomas, I have a natural pride — that this stage in life has been met, but tend to cry when I realize this is the last time the majority of this class will ever be together again."

Mrs. Lock has 2 daughters and one granddaughter that is her "pride and joy" and Mr. Lock is a Dallas varsity coach.

Players awarded at Basketball Banquet

By TOM GREEN

Climaxing a super season that culminated in winning bi-district championship, the North Mesquite Basketball Team held its annual Basketball Banquet, Saturday, April 5, in the school cafeteria. Senior David Crumpton was the Master of Ceremonies.

The J.V. season was summarized by Steve Roushey who awarded Coach Larry Brooks a plaque of appreciation from the J.V. team.

Van Ogden capulized the varsity season and then awarded Coach Ron Powell an appreciation plaque from the varsity team.

Coach Powell introduced the managers and awarded the players their letters and presented the school the district and bi-district trophies. He then announced the offensive, defensive, and Stallion award along with the J.V. award, all of which were voted on by the players themselves.

The J.V. award was given to sophomore Clad Watson. The defensive player of the year was David Crumpton for the second year in a row. The offensive player of the year came to a tie between senior, Mike Nelson and last year's winner, junior Mark Davis. The Stallion award was very close also, with Senior, Van Ogden receiving the award.

David Beane gave the closing prayer to conclude the banquet.

Golf goes to district

On April 14 and 15 two teams of five boys competed in the District golf match. April 14 the team competed at Eastern Hills Country Club and April 15 they played at the Mesquite Municipal Golf Course.

Four girls will participate in the Regional Golf Tour at Denton April 18 and 19. They are Kathy Patton, Dana Zivney, Sandi Kirkpatrick, and Ruth Hernandez.

With hard work these girls have taken the District Title, Coach Charles Tabor said.

The Sports Scene

By MARTY McLENDON

The UCLA Bruins claimed their tenth national title in twelve years and their eighth in the last nine years by virtue of their 92-85 topping of the Kentucky Wildcats in San Diego, March 31.

The first half of the game looked as though Kentucky might claim the title as they at one time lead Wooden's bunch by six points. Then Wooden decided to put Ralph Drollinger a seven foot one inch center in the game and the Bruins fought back and took a 43-40 lead going into the dressing room at half time.

With Drollinger in the game the UCLA front line was like a giant wall and Kentucky found it difficult to penetrate it. Soon thereafter the Bruins began to take control of both boards and it seemed it would take a miracle from the Wildcats to hold off the Bruin surge.

Later in the second half UCLA built a 10 point margin 66-56 but Kentucky retaliated on 3-three point plays, two from sharp shooter Kevin Grevey and cut the lead to one point on an outside jump shot by Grevey. The 'Cats had the chance to take the lead on a technical by Dave Meyers and a free throw, but both were missed which was soon to be Kentucky's last dying hope for a victory.

About half way through the second half Wooden began to slow the tempo but Kentucky still failed to hit the vital shots trailing by three points twice and several times at one point.

With John Wooden retiring, people wonder if UCLA will ever be the same. With one man coaching a team so long how will it effect next year's team with the Westwood Wizard gone? It could be fatal; but how could you ever think of a losing UCLA basketball team.

There's One In Every Crowd is a very good album and unlike many successful artists, he doesn't come out with any material just to make money. As Clapton says, "My driving philosophy about making music is that you can reduce it down to one note if that one note is played with the right kind of feeling and with the right kind of sincerity. I'd love to knock an audience cold with one note but what do you do for the rest of the evening?"

Stallion netters third in district

By JUNE BLANKENSHIP

New members and a more dedicated attitude prove to be an asset as the tennis team finishes third in district with a 10-3-1 record.

North Mesquite was beaten by South Garland, who captured first place, and Richardson, who came in second.

New outstanding starters for this season according to Coach James Brinkley included Pam Powell, Nancy Luepnitz, Tina Essler, Donna Eaton, James Schack and Danny Turtle. They plan to be back on the team next year.

"I feel like the team has worked hard towards winning more matches and becoming a more unified team," said Coach Brinkley.

He added, "I'm pleased with the attitude of the team this year. It's rewarding to teach tennis, especially seeing the kids improve. I think it takes a certain kind of person to play all year."

When asked how he felt about the team, Danny Tuttle, new starter, said this, "I enjoyed playing on the team this year. I'll miss the seniors next year. They were a big part of the team."

Coach Brinkley thinks next year will be promising as this year's junior high hopefuls and this year's NM starters combine their talents together.

Girl's Basketball to begin

Tallying one point for Women's Liberation, a basketball team for girls will be participating in 8-AAAA competition beginning next fall at North Mesquite.

Girls chosen for next year's basketball team are Joy Welch, Kathy Roe, Steffanie Roberts, Alyce Huntress, Lana Gilmore, Dana Zivney, Kathy Acker, Alsine Meadows, Joni Franklin, Tina White, Terri Meadows, Cynthia McKinney, Christy McElhannon, Sandra Jones, Laurie Nelson, Wanda Villareal, Peweie Woodard, Kelley Newman, Debra Wilder, Tracey Williams, Laurie McMillan, Susan Taylor, Laurie Blankenship, Cinda Bear, Kathy Lents and Peri Basden.

Mr. John Campbell, principal, said the girls will compete in 8-AAAA division, and the coach has not been selected.

Baseballers optimistic about season

By KAREN COLLINS

With the baseball season underway and a 5-8 record to date, varsity baseball players and coaches are feeling the pinch of heavy competition. Still optimistic coaches and team members feel that the chances for district are very high.

"We should win district if everybody plays their potential," commented David Kinney, shortstop.

Coach Ken Trepagnier explained our chances for district are high, but right now our luck is going against us, injury wise, but I don't think that we're out of it, because the kids are very competitive."

Part of playing baseball is psychologically being ready for the competition. "You have to go out and play the game and be mentally as well as physically tough," says Steve Elkins.

John Riley felt, "It's an easy game to play. Many make baseball a job which takes the fun out of any sport. Baseball gives you a chance to know the guy beside you."

Terry Brizendine explained, "Baseball is harder than basketball, and football is harder is baseball because more is expected from a football player."

Johnny Case says, "The coaches are real good but they can only teach us so much. All the rest is left up to the players."

Lake Highlands and Richardson Pearce will be the strong teams in the district, according to the coaches. Coach Trepagnier explained, "The reason they will be tough to beat is that they have a lot of returning players."

With the loss of center fielder David Crumpton in the first district game the players still anticipate winning.

The coaches were asked about next year's team and how losing 9 seniors would effect the team. Coach Terry Warren says, "We will feel the loss of the pitchers, but overall we have a good bunch of kids."

Team has ups and downs

By MAX JAGGERS

Having their ups and downs, the North Mesquite Baseball Team is struggling to stay up with the district leaders with a district record of 4-3.

The Stallions opened district play on March 11 with a win over South Garland, then dropped the next two to North Garland and Richardson. North Mesquite picked up another win by whipping Garland over the Easter holidays, but fell the next game to Lake Highlands. The Stallions then won two in a row by defeating Richardson, Pearce, and Wilmer-Hutchins, which brings their record up to date.

The season is already half over, and the Stallions will have to win every game and hope the district leaders lose some to win district.

Lou Hulcey who ran the third leg of the race said, "We gained a lot of experience and next year we'll know what we will have to do."
